Nils Berg is known as one of the most influential voices in Scandinavian jazz. Since the debut in 2004, he has released eight albums as a leader, and is known for broad collaborations with such vastly different worlds as Fatoumata Diawara, Mando Diao, the Cullberg Ballet and Forss.

In Nils Berg Cinemascope, the trio formed in 2009 together with drummer Christopher Cantillo and bassist Josef Kallerdahl, that boundlessness is taken to its extreme. Through video clips of singers and musicians from all corners of the world, the band creates new music as well as new venues, where Sweden, through a projector placed on stage, meets Bhutan, Texas, Osaka or India. A concert experience beyond the ordinary, where the border between digital and acoustic technique is being erased: all of it is performed live with the video guests projected behind the trio.

The band has released three full length albums, the debut record Popmotion (2011), Vocals (2013) and Searching For Amazing Talent From Punjab (2016). Vocals is a film, which, after being screened in Swedish theatres, has found a digital screen at www.nilsbergcinemascope.com/vocals. In 2018 Nils Berg Cinemascope premiered their second film, Dina Grannar (Your Neighbors) a poetic musical documentary about the citizens of an ordinary Swedish town.
